New face in Holography

Robert Munday has joined the staff team of the new Holography Unit (currently still bricks and mortar in the old Print Gallery). As holography's technician he will be work with Dr Nick Phillips and Peter Miller, and has special responsibility for the Unit's powerful laser equipment.

Robert completed a BA course in Scientific and Technical Graphics at Plymouth Technical College (including industrial release at The Atomic Energy Authority). He learnt holography at Plymouth and continued practising in design and commercial holography as well as teaching at Richmond Holographic Studios 1983/5. At Richmond, Robert was involved in many pulsed laser portrait projects and has unique experience in this field.

His own holograms, and those produced with the RHS team have been shown at the International Exhibition of Display Holography at Lake Forest, USA this Fall, and at 'Best of British' (York).

Robert's particular interest is in linking holography with other forms of visual communication, and in developing designed based courses. Until the Unit moves to its new home at Darwin, Rob will be located at Cromwell Road.
